

DREAM GARAGE

MAN NEEDS HIS SPACE

PLAN IT

FILL IT

USE IT

SEARCH

DREAM GARAGES
HANGOUTS
WORKSHOPS
GARAGE PROPERTY

DESIGN CENTER
CABINETS
STORAGE
FLOORING
PLANS
DOORS

MY DREAM GARAGE
Login / Create Account

OVERVIEW

HOME // HANGOUTS //

RATHSKELLER RETREAT

Located on a peninsula of Schmidt Lake, somewhere deep in the Minnesota wilderness, is this rustic, hunting lodge-style retreat brought to life by architectural designer Jeff Murphy of Murphy & Co Design.

The lake was named after the Schmidts, who've been fishing it for years. That would come in handy when it was time to carve a detailed map of the lake into the 4" thick cedar bar. Since a map of the lake didn't exist, Jeff Murphy took a satellite image of it, traced the outline and then had the Schmidt brothers tell him what the depths were. He then drew his own map, which included the house location, roads, and lake contours and had it carved into the bar.

The design and details like that are what makes this retreat so special. To create the hunting lodge look, Jeff Murphy used a post and beam design, along with stone on the walls and fireplace-surround and plenty of wood - also on the walls, the coffered ceiling in the TV area, and the bar. There is a little bear (also custom-carved) that holds up one of the upper glass cabinets.

The ceilings are 11' high, allowing transom windows for additional light and to gain views of the treetops from this lower level. The ceiling above the bar area is copper paneled with a copper frieze, reminiscent of an old lodge bar.

There is also a secure Gun Room that uses a

Garage Solution

Slide-Lok Of Minnesota. Get 20% Off Now. Call 866-354-5138 Today.

Top Gear Autoworks

European & Specialty Automotive Service & Restoration(612) 724-8901

Ads by Google

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL
PRINT & ONLINE

Now get up to 4 Weeks FREE!

Subscribe today

Rathskeller Retreat

The bar top was made of 4" thick cedar, and the lake shape, bottom, house location, and roads were carved into the cedar by a wood carver in Brainerd, MN. See resources below

PHOTOS

SAVE TO MY DREAM GARAGE EMAIL A FRIEND

